

Dr Evgeny Pavlushkov, Senior Transplant Clinical Fellow, Royal Papworth Hosptial, Cambridge

Evgeny Pavlushkov graduated from Saint Petersburg State University in 2001 and was trained as a general and thoracic surgeon there.

In 2008, he visited Royal Papworth Hospital for a dedicated short term fellowship from European Respiratory Society to see the Papworth's renowned program for surgical treatment of chronic thromboembolic pulmonary hypertension. Following this visit, they adopted Papworth's protocol and successfully implemented it at his hospital back in Saint-Petersburg.

I came back to the cardiothoracic department at Papworth in 2012 and went on to work for the transplant service at Papworth since 2013.

It has been an amazing years for him as he has been privileged to be a part of many success stories that Papworth is famous for.

In 2018 I changed my career pathway towards clinical radiology but every now and then he still enjoys opportunities to contribute to the efforts of the fantastic transplant team at Royal Papworth Hospital.
