Reflective writing workshops

Do you need to produce reflections for revalidation? Or write reflections as part of an academic course?

Join us on one of Reflective writing sessions we're holding in October.

You will:

- Know the basic principles of reflective writing and why it is useful
- Learn how to write reflectively
- Be aware of the requirements for reflections in revalidation for various roles
- Know how the Library can support you in your revalidation

Choose from two sessions:
Thursday 29 October, 11am-12pm, or
Friday 30 October, 10am-11am

Important reminder about returned books

When you return your books by placing them in the box, please remember that they will take 7-10 days to be taken off your account. This is because we need to quarantine the items before processing them. Don't worry. The book isn't lost. If you receive an email reminder, please ignore it. Please check your account again in a few days and it will have been discharged.

Race, culture and identity

You said: October is Black History Month. Do we have any books about race, culture and identity?

We did: We have compiled a list of suggested reading on the topic. You can borrow these items from libraries in our East of England network. Check out the list in our ELMS catalogue and request a copy by placing a hold.

New e-books in our collection

You can find these new titles on Kortext.

You can find a guide to Kortext here.

If you have checked the ELMS catalogue and Kortext, but we don't have the book you need, please submit a request for a new purchase. Every request will be given due consideration.
